

DRAFT PREVIEW ONLY -- not send-ready. Bracketed fields are still placeholders (see the punch list at the end of this file's chat message). The small three-logo row below is for your own old-vs-new comparison in this draft and would not appear on a real letter.

[Tree surgeon's business name]

[Telephone] · [Email] · [Website]

Tree work at your property

Dear homeowner,

Your council's public planning records show a tree-related application at your property. If you're still looking for someone to carry out the work, we'd welcome the opportunity to provide a quote.

We're [business name], serving [local area]. [Add verified qualifications, insurance and relevant services.]

Call [telephone] or email [email], quoting [reference], to discuss the work or arrange a visit.

There's no obligation. If you've already appointed a tree surgeon, you can simply disregard this letter.

Kind regards,

[Name]

[Business name]

This introduction was arranged through TreeKey using public planning information. Please turn over for details about how your information was used and how to stop further contact.

Reverse: why you received this letter

Who is responsible?

TreeKey is operated by Nicholas Michael Secular, trading as TreeKey, at [business correspondence address]. Contact: nick@treekey.co.uk.

[Identify the tree surgeon's business and explain its separate responsibility for any personal information it receives.]

Where did your information come from?

We obtained [actual data categories -- e.g. application address, applicant name and proposed-work details] from [council name]'s public planning register on [date].

Why are we using it?

We use relevant planning information to identify potential tree-work opportunities and arrange introductions from local tree surgeons. Our proposed lawful basis is legitimate interests: helping tree surgeons find relevant work and offering property owners a relevant service.

Who receives your information?

The purchasing tree surgeon receives the application address, applicant name, planning agent (where given), and a summary of the proposed work. Our printing and postal provider also processes the information needed to produce and send this letter.

How long do we keep it?

[Insert the actual retention period or clear criteria.] If you object to marketing, we retain only the information needed to respect that request.

Your choices and rights

You have the right to object to direct marketing at any time. To stop further TreeKey marketing, email nick@treekey.co.uk with your address and reference [reference]. No explanation is required.

You can also request access to or correction of your personal information, and request deletion or restriction where applicable. You can complain to the Information Commissioner's Office at ico.org.uk.

Full privacy information: [working privacy-notice URL]
[QR code linking to the same notice]